

Gaal has earned admiration

To the editor:

Anything I note here about Chris Gaal will be insufficient to convey the deep admiration I have for his character, his evenhandedness, preparedness and his careful study of any issue he encounters. I've watched Chris firsthand from the time we were both elected to public office almost 20 years ago. He was dedicated and organized in that first campaign, and it's been a joy to watch him grow those innate skills as president of the city council and as county prosecutor. He would make an excellent, thoughtful judge.

Over his career, Chris has really dedicated his abilities in government and the law to creating partnerships and programs that focus on problem solving, education, rehabilitation — programs that serve county residents, including senior citizens, students, those touched by addictions or mental health issues. The list of resources built with his collaboration includes those that we now consider essential in our community. Chris Gaal embodies to me what it means when we say Bloomington is special.

Chris's wide range of awards for accomplishments in public service are a testament to his leadership. Before you vote in this election, please take a few minutes to review his experience and public service at chrisgaal.org.

Regina Moore
Bloomington

Return to <http://chrisgaal.org/letters.html>